

To Whom it May Concern,

I'm writing in response to your job posting for QA Tester (<https://www.gamesjobsdirect.com/details/qa-tester/119995>). Please consider my application as required.

A recent graduate from Sheridan College's Game Level Design Post-Graduate program, I've learned the hard and soft skills necessary to effectively create meaningful and engaging game-play and levels that meet industry standards. I have a solid foundation in the principles of design, having previously worked for a number of years in Graphic, UX/UI and Web Design and have the collaboration skills necessary to communicate and work with multiple teams and have experience designing levels and game systems in various mediums and understand the importance of the 3Cs.

Efficient in handling tasks, I am an expert multi-tasker that can tackle various needs related to game design and gameplay such as particles, sound effects, level design, modeling, sketching and more. Skilled in producing structured, readable documentation necessary for design (such as Game Design Documents), I take pride in clear and concise writing to establish usable writing that a team can use as a guideline throughout the development cycle.

Over the last 5 years I have worked as Project Manager and Game Designer with a fluctuating team of between 5-10 others creating a massive mod (FrackinUniverse, for Starbound) with over 300,000 players. I have contributed in just about every area applicable to the field over the years both in programming and creative capacities. In my role, I have been able to effectively keep my team on-task and meet the deadlines set for various features and provide a solid and engaging game-play experience to players around the world. I have a proven track record of working well under tight deadlines, and feel that with all of my combined experience I am qualified for the position as listed and would be a valuable asset to your team.

I would appreciate your consideration for my application and the opportunity to further discuss in a personal interview or phone call. I can be reached via email at cdechamplain@gmail.com or via telephone at 416-769-2793.

Thank you for your consideration. I remain available should you have any questions and to provide additional details or references.

Sincerely,

Chris DeChamplain
